<https://www.pcmg-us.org/dsummit>
Event: October 22-24, 2021

This interactive, virtual Summit features presentations, Q&A, breakout sessions, and more over three consecutive afternoons. The Summit is open to chief and senior residents of family medicine residency programs.

Over one third of the family residency programs in the U.S. have participated in a CRS Diabetes, and learner ratings for the Summit are excellent. Last year's virtual program received a 4.95 of a possible score of 5 from participating residents, 100% of whom felt more competent as a physician.

Dear Family Medicine Residency Director:

As diabetes is one of the most common chronic diseases treated by family physicians, family medicine residents should not only know the most up-to-date information on appropriate diabetes treatments, but should also understand the day-to-day trials and tribulations their patients with diabetes experience. The focus of this weekend-long Summit is to educate chief and senior residents on implementing intensified treatment regimens with their patients with diabetes.

Family physicians recognize the need for more educational programs on diabetes as evidenced by the fact that diabetes is one of the top ten most requested topics for educational activities. As a supplement to the diabetes education received under your direction, we invite you to have chief or senior residents (maximum of two per program) register for the 15th Annual Family Medicine Chief Residents Summit on Intensifying Diabetes Management. The program is free to all accepted registrants.

Thank you. We look forward to welcoming your resident.

Sincerely,

Stephen Brunton, MD, FAAFP, CDCES
Executive Director, Primary Care Metabolic Group
